Dear Parishioners and Friends,

I had been planning to have a couple of days away, but with the most recent developments on the Covid front, I've changed my mind! It would seem that in the Lancashire area we are all but in continuing lockdown! Government directives have not been lifted but have been softened to now being referred to as 'advice'. However, we all have the principles firmly established in our minds by now: the more travel and socialising takes place, the more the rate of transmission increases!

This period of time could be compared to the 'ploughing of the land'. All that was settled and peaceful has been brutally ripped apart. Without warning, and with no preparation, the world has been deeply disturbed in every possible way. I have always thought that the unplanned and unexpected twists and turns in life create far more impact upon us than our carefully thought-out, and probably rather unimaginative, plans. However, after the tumultuous events of this pandemic period of time, we will find that new opportunities will arise for us as we scramble to put normality back together again.

The Gospel this weekend speaks of the mustard seed as providing us with a clue to identifying ways in which God promotes the growth of his kingdom in the world, or, from another perspective, the ways in which he makes his way into our personal hearts and minds.

So, let's bring these thoughts together: our lives have been ploughed over by the deeply distressing events of this last year, and the Lord is always on the lookout for opportunities to plant new seeds! Now, this is a recipe for real excitement about our current situation when viewed through the eyes of faith and grasped in the power of the Holy Spirit.

Many new habits and routines might be already establishing themselves in our lives, and we need to be vigilant in discerning whether they are developing from the promptings of the Spirit or whether we have found ourselves just drifting into patterns of behaviour which are not really productive for us.

I can't emphasise enough that it is in prayer that we come into contact with the deeper rhythms and movements of life. The prayer I am speaking of is the prayer of simply being with the Lord—allowing the Spirit to just rinse through our thoughts and feelings, asking him to cleanse and wash away all that serves no purpose within us, and to irrigate all that he wishes to see growing and bearing fruit.

Having celebrated the great feasts of Pentecost, the Most Blessed Trinity, and Corpus Christi, we enter once again into Ordinary Time, but for the person of faith, there are no ordinary days, only days filled with the mystery of God's presence and activity!

With God's blessing upon you and your families,

Fr Gerard

Lilian Price

We received the sad news this week that Lilian Price, Fr John Price's mother, died last weekend. Lilian, known to many at St John Southworth's, lived in Barnoldswick and was in her very late nineties. We pray eternal rest upon her soul, and for God's blessing upon Fr John and all Lilian's family at this time.
